ADVANCE ON BELFORT GAINING MOMENTUM

BULLETIN
With the U. S. First Army in Germany, Oct. 16—(P)—American troops smashing down from above Aachen joined forces today with others working up from the south and completely sealed the city by the juncture. The union was made east of Aachen despite three frantic German counter-attacks in 24 hours, one of them inside the city, in which Nazis screaming "Heil Hitler" rushed American lines with savage fury.

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
London, Oct. 16—(P)—Allied forces sent patrols across the Neder line in Holland, clamped a two-edged grip on the sea entrances to Antwerp and fought to within 32 miles of the Rhine in the Vosges foothills today.

But along the Moselle the bitter battle inside Fort Driant ended successfully after 10 days of close-quarter combat. American forces threw there before dawn Friday, it was announced today. The city, with its maze of underground passages, mushroom pillboxes and steel doors had taken everything American guns and planes could give it. Installations the Americans had occupied were wrecked before the withdrawal from this bastion guarding the French city of Metz.

At Aachen, in the battle of the egfried Line, U. S. First Army troops fought off the third ferocious German countersmash in 24 hours and edged forward by tanks inside the city. Operations are proceeding slowly—with a de-termination intended to save American lives.

The Americans threw a German charge of Crucifix Ridge, northeast of Aachen, and in cold and body fighting turned back a counterattack inside the city by Nazis crazily screaming "Heil Hitler" as they rushed the American lines.

Thirty enemy tanks had been knocked out yesterday and today by artillery and planes at Aachen, a staff officer estimated.

British patrols crossing the Neder Rhine on probing expeditions, where British "Red Devil" paratroopers felled three weeks ago to hold the bridgehead menacing Adolf Hitler's comparatively defenseless northern frontier, were a tentative threat to Nazis fighting fanatically in the western Netherlands.

Canadians were waging a crucial battle to the opening of Antwerp as a supply port before winter's gales, and the drive in the Vosges, on the south of the long Allied front, aimed at clearing the snowy range before winter. Supreme headquarters said the Sixth Army group, comprising the first French Army and the Seventh American Army, had "gained momentum" in the advance north of Belfort Gap.

BULLETINS
Rome, Oct. 16—(P)—A strong British naval force has arrived at Piraeus, the port of Athens, and will begin disembarking troops today. Allied headquarters announced.

The Canadian also took Gamitoia, across the Scolo Rigossa north of the Rimini-Bologna highway, and advanced 1,000 yards beyond the town against light resistance.

In the hills south of Cesena a general advance of about 1,000 yards was made and a number of important terrain features and 140 (Turn to Page Nine)

Road Discussions Waged in Moscow
Moscow, Oct. 16—(P)—Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin conferred for an hour yesterday with British and American representatives in what was understood to be a broad over-look on how to bring the war in Europe to a speedy close.

The senior statesman met with Gen. J. Russell Deane, chief of the United States military mission to the Soviet Union; Lt. Gen. Douglas Burrows, chief of the British military mission; Field Marshal Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the British imperial staff, and Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, Churchill's chief of staff.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr met with Premier Stanislaw Mikojanski, of the Polish London government at the British embassy.

APPEAL FOR NANCY HOLT
Waynesburg, Oct. 16—(P)—Attorneys for Nancy Jeanette Holt, sentenced to life imprisonment for the poisoning slaying of her husband, "inch" tractor operator, said they have filed a motion before the state supreme court for argument of her case. The woman was recently denied a new trial by the high court and said there was sufficient evidence to warrant the jury's dict of guilty.

Dewey Plans New Attack At St. Louis

By JACK BELL
En Route to St. Louis With Dewey, Oct. 16—(P)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey shaped a new attack today on the administration's demobilization plan to supplement his assertion that President Roosevelt is attempting to "hide behind evasions by his associates" on GOP-raised campaign issues.

James C. Hagerty, the New York governor's executive assistant, indicated that Dewey planned to reply—probably in his St. Louis speech tonight—to a letter written by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, to Mr. Roosevelt.

Dewey asserted in his Sept. 7 speech in Philadelphia that Hershey had said it would be necessary to demobilize the armed forces gradually after the war, attributing to Hershey the statement "we can keep people in the army about as cheaply as we could create an agency for them when they are out."

Hershey wrote Mr. Roosevelt that this statement, made at a news conference in Denver last August, represented "personal opinion in a field over which I have no responsibility." He added that it was so understood at the time.

Dewey asserted yesterday that "Mr. Roosevelt confesses that every single statement I made in (Turn to Page Nine)

THREE BOYS ON BIKE KILLED BY MOTORIST

Altoona, Oct. 16—(P)—Two young brothers and their companion were killed yesterday when a bicycle on which the trio was riding collided with an automobile at Bellwood, seven miles east of here.

State police said the bicycle suddenly swerved into the path of the car which had been passing a line of vehicles at the time.

The victims were Charles and Michael Nebelski, 10 and 12, and Howard Johns, 14.

the collection under direction of John Moll.

Elsewhere in the county a similar vigorous effort will be made from October 16, to 26th to get in the paper. Sheffield will have a collection at all schools during this period. Tidoute will have a school collection as well as a curb collection.

W. T. Corbett, county chairman, urged all schools in the county, in addition to those mentioned above, to participate in this important paper collection from October 16, to October 26. He also requests Boy Scout troops and leaders to assist the schools by delivering twine, and helping to bundle the paper and get it out on the curb.

Mr. Corbett pointed out that the period of this paper coincides with the ten day United War Fund Campaign, and that the entire proceeds of the collection will be donated to this cause.

Victory Gardens Are Victims of the Frost

By The Associated Press
Victory gardens were the chief victims today of the season's first killing frost as Pennsylvanians shivered to temperatures as low as 22 degrees.

The State Department of Agriculture at Harrisburg said most farmers were prepared for the frost, generally expected between Oct. 10 and Oct. 15, but many small gardens of tomatoes and peppers throughout the state were reported ruined.

Heavy frosts settled over western Pennsylvania valley towns where temperatures of 22 to 24 degrees were reported.

The weather man's word?—For eastern and western Pennsylvania: "Continued cold tonight."

Salzburg Is Target For U. S. Bombers

London, Oct. 16—(P)—American planes bombed Salzburg in southeast Germany not far from Hitler's Berchtesgaden mountain retreat, the German radio announced.

Before dawn, British heavy bombers in great strength attacked the German ports of Wilhelmshaven and Hamburg during electrical storms.

The enemy said the cathedral of Salzburg was damaged heavily and the Mozart house, home of the great composer, was destroyed.

RAF bombers thundered across the North Sea to carry out the 14th and 15th major British-American raids on the Reich in 40 hours.

Halifax and Lancasters dumped the main load on Wilhelmshaven, while smaller, faster Mosquitos struck Hamburg.

Despite the weather crews said they found openings in the clouds and bombed visually at Wilhelmshaven, key water and rail link with the northern sectors of the (Turn to Page Two)

Floral Tributes Flood Rushville

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 16—(P)—Floral tributes to the late Wendell L. Willkie from persons great and obscure flooded this town of 6,000 today as preparations were made for funeral services and burial in the little East Hill cemetery tomorrow.

The simplest of services were planned in contrast to the spectacular rise of the 1940 Republican presidential standard bearer who rose to international prominence in his "One World."

There will be no long list of honorary pallbearers from among the thousands of persons who mourn Willkie's death. Eight men have been designated as pallbearers, seven of whom are tenants on Willkie farms and the eighth, a former tenant.

Announcement of last rites was made in New York yesterday by the family after arrival of Lt. (JG) Philip Willkie, his only son.

Escape Route In Northern Finland Cut

By W. W. MERCHNER
London, Oct. 16—(P)—The German sea escape route from northern Finland has been cut with the capture of the Arctic port of Petsamo and advancing Red army tanks were reported today to have won an important road junction close to the Norwegian border.

Pravda of Moscow described the newly won highway center as the "key to Norway," without naming it further, and said it had been captured after Russian forces beat off a counter-attack by a German armored column retreating toward Norway.

The battle for Belgrade was not mentioned in the official Soviet communiqué, but Berlin acknowledged that Russian troops and tanks and Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans had fought their way into the city after reaching the outskirts Saturday.

Berlin implied also that other Soviet troops had crossed into German East Prussia on a 27-mile front in the Memel territory.

Presidential Nominees Bid For Pa. Votes

By The Associated Press
Pennsylvania political stock was up a few points in importance today with announcements that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would make a third campaign visit here and President Roosevelt may be a Philadelphia speaker.

The Republican candidate is slated to speak Friday in Pittsburgh, where he previously stopped to confer with party leaders. He has visited Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia Record predicts that the president will make a major speech in the state's largest city the following Friday, Oct. 27.

Pennsylvania, with 35 electoral votes, will have approximately 4,600,000 voters—including 2,621,000 Republicans and 1,824,000 Democrats—eligible to cast ballots on Nov. 7. Reports from county election boards disclose. The total is more than 275,000 above that recorded for the April primary and shows the first upward trend since the 1940 record of 5,014,710.

The figures do not include the soldier vote, estimated at 150,000.

NEW YORK TIMES IS OUT FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Oct. 16—(P)—The New York Times announced today its support of President Roosevelt for reelection in an editorial which said that on the issue of foreign policy "we believe that the scales tip heavily in favor of the Democratic party."

Emphasizing that "we have not changed our minds about the domestic record of the Roosevelt administration," the Times said that "in some respects we believe that an administration led by Mr. Dewey would do a better job in the domestic field."

HITLER FACES NEW DEBACLE IN HUNGARY

Last Large Nazi Vassal Nation Reported Engulfed In Reign of Terror as Collapse Nears

MAKING MASS ARRESTS

London, Oct. 16—(P)—Hungary—the last large Nazi vassal nation—was reported engulfed in a Hitler-inspired reign of terror today as Hungarian Nazis made frenzied efforts to counteract an armistice request by the government of Admiral Nicholas Horthy and prevent another political and military debacle for Germany.

Pro-German elements, presumably aided by German SS divisions, rushed to Budapest from Vienna, apparently seized control of the country immediately after the petition for an armistice was broadcast early last evening in an order of the day signed by regent Horthy.

Within a few hours another broadcast from Budapest announced that the Hungarian Nazi party headed by Ferenc Szalasi had "taken matters in hand to eliminate traitors at all costs" and promised that "the most ruthless measures including the death penalty" would be imposed on those disobeying orders.

The Ankara radio said the Gestapo was making mass arrests and a report broadcast by the radio at Lille, France, said Horthy had been seized by the Gestapo and taken to Germany.

The effect of the peace move on the Hungarian army, an estimated 50 to 40 divisions, was not known immediately. Horthy's petition, as recorded in London, did not order Hungarian soldiers to lay down their arms. A later broadcast of a statement attributed to the chief of the general staff, Col. Gen. Vitez Voeros, urged the troops to continue fighting "until the outcome of armistice negotiations is known," but the Lille radio quoted Swiss reports that large groups of Hungarian soldiers were already quitting.

Meanwhile Russian armies drove across the country's central plains less than 50 miles from Budapest. A Nazi military collapse in Hungary would open to the Red Army the road to Vienna and set up an invasion of the Reich over the soil of Austria.

The German radio early today admitted the action of the Horthy regime "has greatly damaged the waging of the war."

Stockholm, Oct. 16—(P)—Swedish newspaper dispatches from Berlin said today that Nazi troops armed with machineguns and artillery quickly took over all official buildings in Budapest last night immediately after the armistice move by the Hungarian government.

The Stockholm-Tidningen correspondent said that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, head of the Hungarian government, had taken refuge in an ancient Budapest castle which rises high over the Danube river and a guard of 1,000 men was protecting him.

Floating Ports Invasion Secret

By The Associated Press
London, Oct. 16—(P)—Two artificial harbors, built in secret and floated across the English channel, explain the riddle of how the Allies were able to supply their ground troops which swept through northern France while the Germans held every port but Cherbourg.

In disclosing the use of these unique harbors, supreme headquarters said last night that they "made possible the liberation of western Europe."

Floating steel barges, 150 concrete caissons or floating boxes and seven miles of prefabricated pier equipment divided into segments 450 feet long were used to make the harbors along with a flotilla of old ships sent to the channel bottom to provide part of the breakwater system.

The worst ch. nel storm in 40 years wrecked one of the harbors before it was completed, but not before it contributed heavily to the stream of men and equipment pouring into France.

Fox Holed!

Field Marshal Rommel

Gen. Rommel Dead, Berlin Radio States

London, Oct. 16—(P)—Doubt over the fate of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, famed commander of the Afrika Korps and one of the ablest leaders in the German Army, was dispelled yesterday when the Berlin Radio announced that he had died of wounds.

Rumors of Rommel's death had been current since late July when Allied field dispatches quoted German prisoners as saying he had succumbed to injuries suffered when his car was strafed by Allied planes in Normandy. The Germans subsequently denied his death but acknowledged he had suffered a brain concussion and other injuries in an automobile accident during a strafing attack on July 17.

The Berlin broadcast yesterday did not say how Rommel was wounded or when he died, but said Adolf Hitler had ordered a state funeral. The announcement described him as one of Germany's "most successful army leaders."

Rommel, who became known as the "desert fox" during the African campaign, when his troops drove the British to the gates of Alexandria before they were stopped in October, 1942, by Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army, was ground commander of German forces in Normandy at the time of the Allied invasion.

30,000 Men Coming Back Each Month

Washington, Oct. 16—(P)—The War Department, reporting that it now is returning to this country approximately 30,000 men monthly, says it can not increase the number substantially and continue to press the war "vigorously to an early conclusion."

The report, to the house military committee, was prepared as a result of increasing requests for furloughs for men serving abroad.

To permit the return of even 30,000 men monthly, the department said, "we must increase seven times this number, or the equivalent of equal to divisions. For every man that we add to this number being returned, the army would lose the effective use of from four to seven additional soldiers."

Selection of individuals to be returned under quotas assigned to overseas commanders, the report explained, is "the sole responsibility of the authorities in the theatre." Determination is based on local conditions, with consideration given to the length of service for each individual, his value to his unit and "the morale of the individuals in the unit, including the extent of rebuilding of mind and body required."

Transocean added that Bulgarian and Russian forces were attacking the Germans in "interference operations" designed to "slow down the German retreat and hinder building up a new German front."

"These 'interferences' may be possible but the German concentrations cannot be hindered."

Jap Radio Officially Announces That Imperial Fleet Has Joined Duel Entering Third Day

COMMUNIQUE EXPECTED

BULLETIN

Washington, Oct. 16—(P)—Superfortresses has attacked Formosa for the second time in 48 hours, striking installations at Okayama and Heito. The second mission was accomplished without loss of aircraft, the 20th Airforce said.

Of four B-29's previously unreported on the October 14 mission, the airforce said, two are safe and ten of the 11 members of the crew are safe from a third plane that crashed-landed at a forward base. This leaves only one Superfortress lost on the two missions, both of which carried the heaviest bomb loads so far employed by the big planes.

By The Associated Press

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 16—Military objectives on the Japanese island of Formosa were attacked by United States Superfortresses again today, the War Department in Washington reported shortly after Tokyo announced a furious air-naval duel off the island which began Friday had gone into its third day.

Earlier Tokyo officially announced the Imperial fleet had joined the battle. Tokyo radio said 50 American warships were sunk or damaged in the taction off Formosa and in a new air-sea battle, not confirmed by Nimitz, east of the Philippines.

A communiqué, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission reported Japanese planes intercepted and "carried out repeated fierce attacks in waters east of Manila in a diversionary attempt to 'freeze' the enemy task force now fleeing in defeat" from Formosa.

The war department said a communiqué covering results of the Formosa operation would be released as soon as results are available.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced yesterday morning that strong Japanese aerial attacks precipitated the engagement in mid-afternoon Friday and said "this fight is continuing." The Japanese counterattack, their third of the Formosa campaign, followed new American raids on that island and Luzon.

Early Evacuation Of Greece Hinted

London, Oct. 16—(P)—Berlin radio indicated today that the Germans had decided to evacuate Greece.

The broadcast by the Transocean agency said: "Because of the German evacuation of Greece the Balkan front will assume a different aspect, said a German military spokesman this afternoon. Events there are still very fluid. The decision in this sector will fall later."

Transocean added that Bulgarian and Russian forces were attacking the Germans in "interference operations" designed to "slow down the German retreat and hinder building up a new German front."

"These 'interferences' may be possible but the German concentrations cannot be hindered."

Tokyo Report of Conflict Unconfirmed

(From Page One)
The admiral issued a second communiqué at 6 p. m. (8:30 p. m. Pacific War Time) but made no mention of the Formosa engagement in recounting reports of aerial strikes from the Kuriles to the Marshalls. This indicated that radio silence prevented the third fleet from making further reports.

Nimitz has not confirmed the presence of Japanese surface units in the mounting battle.

American carrier aircraft, sufficiently confident to divide their forces, attacked Formosa for the third consecutive day and Luzon for the sixth time at dawn Friday. Nimitz reported little air opposition was encountered over the targets. Preliminary reports indicated 11 Japanese planes were shot down and 30 destroyed around.

Small groups of Japanese planes attacked the American forces Wednesday, after the first carrier plane assault on Formosa.

While the battle in the north flared, Gen. Douglas MacArthur Friday sent more than 150 southwest Pacific bombers against Cera and Boeroe islands, southwestern guardians of approaches to the invasion-menaced Philippines. Airfields, installations and shipping were hit.

Nimitz also announced that marines on Peleliu island in the southern Palaus, had sealed up several more enemy caves.

U. S. First Army Fights Off Third Countermass In 24 Hours inside Aachen drove the Canadians back from leading to the islands of Zuid Beveland and Walcheren in the estuary. Allied artillery still dominated the causeway, however.

The Germans made their strongest attempt to break the U. S. First Army's lines encircling Aachen and to relieve the Nazi garrison inside the city.

Inside Aachen the Germans are fighting with hopeless savagery. A front dispatch said one American infantry company in more than two hours of fighting had advanced only two blocks through one ravaged street.

British forces in Holland battered their way toward the German frontier have advanced another 1,000 yards southeast of Overloon. Overcoming fierce enemy resistance the British struck to within 2,500 yards of the Nazi stronghold at Venray. There were signs of a German pullback all along the narrow front before Venray.

In northern France American Third Army units drove a mile east beyond the Parroy forest in the Metz-Nancy sector.

Lease Tragedy

Edward Milo Lawson, aged 70, Negro resident of Franklin, was found dead in front of the engine house on the Fleming and Miller lease on the former David Emery farm along Miller farm road, four and one-half miles south of Titusville, about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The body was found by George Miller of Grand Valley, one of the lease owners, who went to the farm to pump the first sand wells, which are not pumped more than once a week.

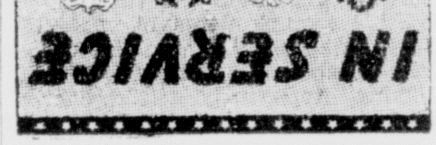

"It had been about eight days since I last pumped the wells," said Mr. Miller to the Titusville Herald. As I approached the engine house I saw the door was open, so I knew someone had been there. When I reached the building I saw the body of a man lying in front of the door. I saw at once he was dead, so came to Titusville and notified the Coroner and State Police at Franklin."

Coroner P. E. Cunningham and Pvt. Honoh of the State Police came to investigate.

A water bill in the man's pocket disclosed his identity. Residents in that neighborhood said they saw a colored man walking around as though he might be lost, about the middle of last week.

It was apparent yesterday that he had been in the engine house, as his shoes and stockings were found inside. He was well dressed and probably collapsed when coming out of the engine house.

Coroner Cunningham said death undoubtedly was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage and that the man fell dead when he was leaving the engine house. A certificate of death from natural causes was issued by the Coroner.

Tidioute Soldier Helps Halt Patrol

The following dispatch from Seventh Army headquarters in France will be of interest to many friends of the Warren county soldier mentioned:

A two-man patrol of the Third Infantry Division turned into a combat patrol when it accidentally ran into what was evidently the point of a German platoon.

Pfc. Edward M. Lindberg, of Tidioute, Pa., and Pvt. Clarence J. Beard, of Mason City, Ill., were scouting along a hillside on a routine reconnaissance when they saw three enemy riflemen come over the top of a hill. Lindberg killed two and Beard the other, but when more enemy troops continued to come over, the Yanks decided they were too far outnumbered and withdrew.

Lindberg's wife, Marian, and son, Edward, live in Tidioute. His father is Ellis M. Lindberg, of Warren.

Officer Known Here Is Killed

It was learned here over the weekend that Lt. Robert W. Swanson, son of Mr. Bonnie Kenneth Swanson and Fenton W. Swanson, formerly of Warren, was killed on Friday, October 13, at Ebersburg, Tenn., training field while on a routine combat training flight.

Lt. Swanson, 21 years of age, enlisted for Air Corps service in February, 1943. He had been assigned to a B-17, Flying Fortress, and expected to leave for active duty on Wednesday of this week.

His body is being shipped to Pelham, N. Y., arriving there some time today. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, according to word received from Pelham.

36 MONTHS OVERSEAS

LeRoy "Pete" Himes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Himes, of Tiona, arrived home Saturday night after 36 months in the Southwest Pacific and will be here until Thursday. Arriving at the same time was his brother, Charles, who is stationed at Peterson Field, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Gerald Lindberg, engineer in the merchant marines, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Steve Massa, Conewango avenue, is returning to his base today.

COSTLY GAME

Saturday's Warren-Jamestown football game proved a costly one for James Merchant, 217 Allen street, Jamestown, after he had crashed into the back end of a Dodge truck owned and driven by Charles Michael, of Russell, who uses the machine for mail delivery. Damage to the truck was estimated by State Police at $5 and to the Ford sedan driven by Merchant at $45.

CRASH AT INTERSECTION

Two cars were damaged in a collision at the intersection of Beech street and Pennsylvania avenue Friday evening shortly before nine o'clock. The police report stated that the cars involved were operated by Edna V. Hadley, 311 Madison avenue, and Charles Baker, Fourth avenue. The Baker car was making a left turn into Pennsylvania avenue when struck by the other machine enroute west. It was expected a satisfactory adjustment would be reached.

State To Recreate French Industry

France's coal situation is serious, as transportation tie-up and shortage of pit timbers hampers operations. Here barges lie idle in northern France, the nation's most important coal mining area.

By TOM WOLF

NEA Staff Correspondent
Paris, Oct. 16—Robert LaCoste, France's Minister of Industrial Production, believes that only by the most rigid state direction of every aspect of French economy plus nationalization of certain key industries can France succeed in the immense work of reconstruction.

"It is evident that the job cannot be done by private initiative," La Coste told me in an exclusive interview, the first he has given since taking office. "The nation must have in its own hands control of the distribution of raw materials, of credit, of directing workers to industry, and control of imports and exports and of prices and salaries."

"This war has taught us that the states which survive are those which have taken into their own hands the direction of their economy; and those whose key industries are national property."

"During the four years of occupation the Germans have attempted to make our industry nothing more than a complement to their own and have stolen our machinery. My job therefore is to recreate French industry."

La Coste said that this job involves in part the working out of a plan which will allow the most complete utilization of the sources of industrial energy; in part the production of quality products which will earn good prices; and finally the renewing of France's industrial machinery. Therefore, he believes that the first necessity is the working out of an extremely detailed plan for utilization of France's sources of energy, coal, electricity and fuels of all sorts.

"The coal situation is going to be serious for a considerable time," La Coste continued. "The mines today can only be worked slowly. The enemy hasn't been able to destroy our mines in the of transportation, La Coste said.

When the railroads are working,
wood necessary to work the mines will be quickly available and will permit the mines to work full speed. But until there is transportation, coal wouldn't be or much use if it could be mined, because it couldn't be brought to the factories—especially those generating electricity. Many French industries depend on electricity for production and at present the production of electricity is woefully insufficient.

In the weeks preceding the liberation of Paris the Germans cut all high tension wires except those from Kemps on the Rhine. "We are making every effort to re-establish power lines to Massif Central and the Alps but the problem is magnified by the fact that our materials are extremely worn out," La Coste said. "Our efforts are directed most strongly to-

THE EIGHT DEGREES OF GIVING

By MAIMONIDES

The first and lowest degree is to give, but with reluctance or regret. This is the gift of the hand, but not of the heart.

The second, is to give cheerfully, but not proportionately to the distress of the sufferer.

The third is, to give cheerfully and proportionately, but not until solicited.

The fourth is, to give cheerfully and proportionately, and even unsolicited, but to put it in the poor man's hand, thereby exciting in him the painful emotion of shame.

The fifth is, to give charity in such a way that the distressed may receive the bounty, and know their benefactor, without their being known to him. Such was the conduct of some of our ancestors who used to tie up money in the corners of their cloaks, so that the poor might take it unperceived.

The sixth, which rises still higher, is to know the objects of our bounty but remain unknown to them. Such was the conduct of those of our ancestors but remain unknown to them. Such was the conduct of those of our ancestors who used to convey their charitable gifts into poor people's dwellings, taking care that their own persons and names should remain unknown.

The seventh is still more meritorious—namely, to bestow charity in such a way that the benefactor may not know the relieved persons, nor they the names of their benefactors, as was done by our charitable forefathers during the existence of the temple. For there was in the holy building a place called the Chamber of the Silent, wherein the good deposited secretly whatever their generous hearts suggested, and from which the poor were maintained with equal secrecy.

Lastly, the eighth, and the most meritorious of all, is to anticipate charity by preventing poverty—namely, to assist the reduced fellowman, either by a considerable gift or a sum of money, or by putting him in the way of business, so that he may earn an honest livelihood and not be forced to the dreadful alternative of holding out his hand for charity. This is the highest step and summit of charity's golden ladder.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Centuries ago, a wise philosopher described the "eight steps" of the golden ladder of giving. Moses ben Mainum (another way of spelling his name) lived from 1135 to 1204. Many things have happened since then, but his wisdom still holds good. That is why we reprint this famous masterpiece. It possesses a vital and definite timeliness since the Warren County United War Fund is today beginning its campaign for $88,700.

SCOREBOARD

The Nazis spent a lot of ingenuity, money and effort in building the Siegfried Line. They spent a lot of breath thundering to the world about its "impregnability." But they didn't awe the Yanks worth a darn.

This was evident in a picture the other day which showed a group of G. I.'s listening to a World Series broadcast on a jeep radio, and casually using a wall of the vaulted Siegfried Line for a scoreboard.

We rather imagine that this wonderfully casual calling of the Nazi bluff can be counted among the American soldier's chief assets. He respects the tangibility of bombs and bullets, but he simply refuses to be impressed by bloated propaganda. He will probably shoot craps on the sidewalk in front of the Reichchancellery in Berlin.

That traditional football game between the Dragons of Warren and Jamestown Gridders was a classic in every sense of the word. Fans from both towns had plenty of chances to unloose enthusiasm as the contest progressed. Our own Blue and White warriors acquitted themselves in gallant manner and most of the estimated 5,000 fans were well satisfied with the result, excepting a few of the died-in-the-wool Warren rooters who may have wagered that the locals would be the victors.

A handsome young Navy officer running for Congress in Maryland has offered, with a gallant gesture and a split infinitive, "to personally kiss every lady" in his district. It may that there will shortly be added to the raucous literature of this election year charges aimed at the Irresistible as well as the Indispensable Man.

According to Warren post office employees our men and women in the armed forces overseas are not to be forgotten at Christmas time. And a lot of local folk would have been out of luck had not the mailing deadline been extended until today.

Frontline Delivery Boys Find Treat In Rural French Hotel

By HAL BOYLE

La Chapelle, France, Sept. 28—(Delayed)—(AP)—A cold autumn rain tapped like silver pencils on the windowpanes of a small French hotel in this Gallic version of Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street."

A slattern duck washed her long neck happily in the sloppy gray waters of her feed trough in the courtyard. Outside on the narrow sidewalk a prim mademoiselle shot annoyed glances at military vehicles speeding past and spraying her high russet boots with blobs of mud.

"Take it easy, boots," the soldier in one truck yelled as they rode past.

Inside the hotel three truck drivers with dirty, stained uniforms and fatigue-lined faces sat at a small table eating a five dollar steak dinner and washing it down with a five dollar bottle of wine.

The prices were outrageous for such a hotel, but the three soldiers didn't care if the meal cost their whole month's pay. It was their first solid food in days and they were warm and out of the rain and nipping wind. All that worried them was whether the steak was real beef or horsemeat—and they weren't worried too much about that.

They were "redball" truck drivers—members of that unsung and hard-working crew who keep flowing in along the army's lifeline supply of food, ammunition, medicine and clothing, without which the frontline troops would be helpless.

I had stopped with Joe Madden, press wireless operator of Flushing, N. Y., after the jeep in which we were carrying a load of perforator tape from Paris to our press camp up front had broken down. As we waited for our steak, the three soldiers told us what it was like to be a truck driver in those first mad days when they had to supply armies ranging clear across France and Belgium and up into Holland and Germany.

"For 10 days we only had two or three hours' sleep each night," said Pvt. Joe Patti, Chicago, adding that the outfit "highballed" a total of 222,000 gallons of gasoline to the frontline area during one 24-hour period.

"Yeah, we work 20 or 30 hours at a stretch—until we get that gas up where those tanks can use it," said Pfc. Marco A. Batista, Brooklyn, who, like Patti and the third soldier, Pvt. James Faston, of Winterville, Miss., was proud because they were in the first gasoline supply unit to operate east of Paris.

The convoys moved on a special "red ball" system of one-way roads from which all slow-moving civilian and army traffic was banned. The trucks were kept going day and night without repairs—and they broke down before the tough and loyal drivers broke.

"We moved so fast from place to place we could never count on meals and we were always running out of rations," said Gaston, "so we just scrounged wherever we could and picked up eggs, apples and tomatoes from French farmers—anything to keep filled up."

"Two of our trucks got lost and drove right into the front lines. They came to a fork where two dead Germans and two dead cows were lying in the road. They'd just been killed in fighting. Our drivers came back quick—with two German machineguns they grabbed up."

"It ain't such a bad life," said Patti, "except it gets awful cold in that cab at night, particularly if you lose your blankets."

Someone opened the door and the three truckdrivers shivered as the wind blew in. They finished their last gulp of wine, paid the bill and hesitated reluctantly at the door as they buttoned their jackets.

"Well, let's get going," said Patti. They gave a slow last look about the dry room and then stomped noisily into the cold, wet world outside. They climbed into big trucks and in a few seconds were spinning their wheels down the rain-slick highway like it was the Indianapolis speedway with one lap to go for the prize money.

First rubber raincoats were worn by South American Indians, who smeared their bodies with liquid rubber.

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

In 1924 Judge and Mrs. Edward S. Lindsey have arrived in this city after spending some months abroad. Both were delighted with their tour but both declare Warren is just the finest city they have seen in all their travels.

Women of the DAR are at work endeavoring to locate the graves of the old time Revolutionary War heroes who are buried in this county. Each grave as found will be permanently charted and marked.

Work of erecting the new addition to the Woman's Club has been undertaken. The new structure will house an assembly and banquet hall. Frank Schuler has the contract for the work.

Stanley Cramer and Oscar Baird were badly burned yesterday while at work repairing a gas engine on a lease of the Pennsylvania Gas Company near Jo Jo. It is feared that Baird may die as the result of the burns but Cramer will recover.

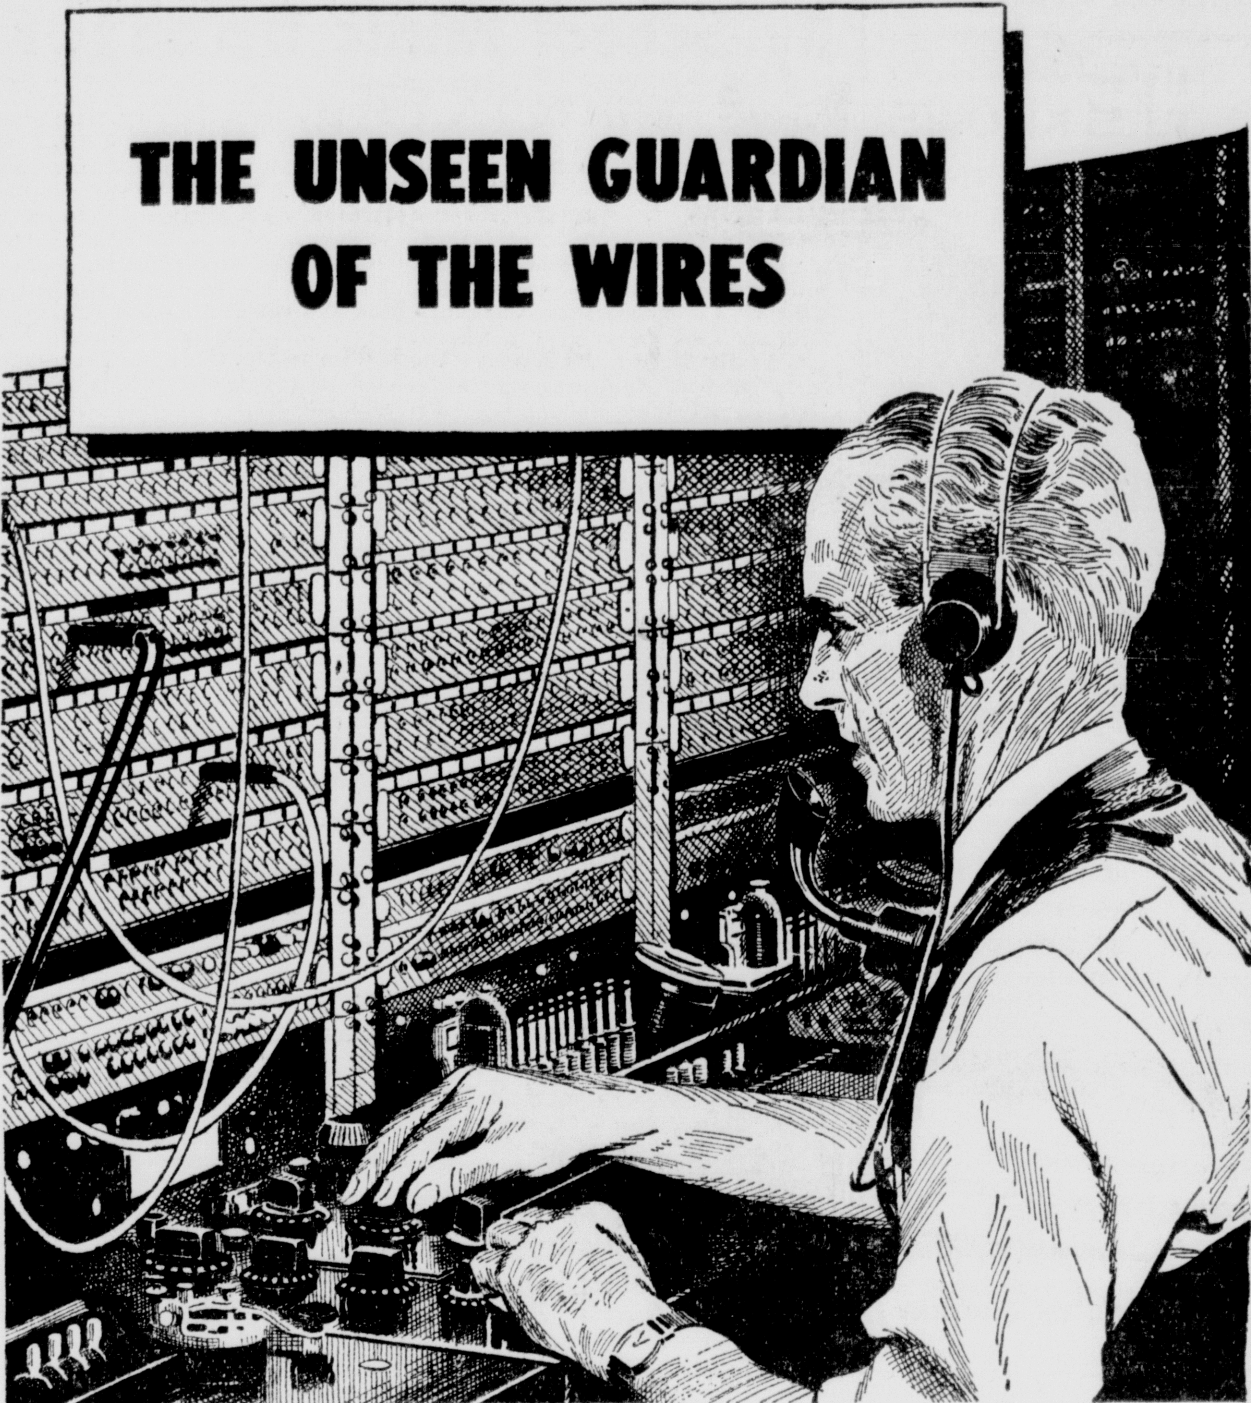

This morning there were more peaches on the curb market than have been there in a long time. They sold rapidly at $2.50 per bushel.

In 1934 Finishing touches are now being placed on the improved highway between Kinzua and Kane. The section out of Kane has been under way for the past two years and is all in place while the three and one-half miles in this county is now nearing completion.

The Testboard Man is working day and night in Telephone Central Offices to keep your telephone service working smoothly.

It's amazing what he can do. If there should be any trouble on the lines, special instruments help him locate it within a few yards—even though it is miles away from the testing station.

This saves hours of searching by line crews. That's more important than ever these busy war days.

Chapter 5

THE Coromandel was anchored in the stream for the night, awaiting the dawn tide. The tugs had cast off and gone fussing back to their own berths. Though she was so close to the city, it was a dark night and there was nothing to be seen except the green and red buoy-lights of the channel and the brilliant mass of stars in the black velvet sky above.

Outside everything was still under the majestic calm of a summer night. Inside the closed ship the lights were bright and the people gay, with the sort of suppressed excitement of a theater before the curtain goes up. There was an unreal quality about this night; the sadness of farewell was beginning to wear off, and both crew and passengers were looking forward to being on their way. Yet here they were, close still to the land and the friends they had left behind, but hearing nothing, seeing nothing, as if Auckland no longer existed. There was no communication with the land.

To all intents and purposes the Coromandel had sailed—except for the last letters the pilot would take off tomorrow.

In the big lounge forward, the young airman were making themselves at home, some of them writing last-minute notes, some giving an impromptu concert that filled "A" deck with cheerful noise.

RORY, coming down the after-staircase on his way to visit the ship's surgeon, was thankful for the velvet darkness of the night. There would be moonlight enough, later on in the month, to show them to every raider and submarine on the route. But it was always a comfort to sail when the moon was waning, or in cloudy weather. It gave them a sense of security, however absurd.

Cherry, coming up from the galley with her own dinner tray, stood aside to let him pass.

To Rory, fresh from the outer darkness, her face was like a small bright beacon. He said suddenly, spontaneously, "You look happy! Got your family installed?"

"Yes, thank you," Cherry shook her head as he held out his hands for the tray. "There's a little boy—Terry—she hesitated, wondering why she wanted to tell Rory about the child, and allowed the words to drift away.

"Mrs. Scott-Price's nephew," Rory remembered the agent's mentioning the boy. He thought any nephew of that woman's would be pretty poisonous. But Cherry's face was soft and warm and eager. Rory said gently, "Then you will be happy. I'm glad," and went on down to the surgery, wondering why he had said that, and meant it. The girl would think he was crazy. Both of them went on their way with a little glow, as if in the quickening life of the ship they had found a friend and passed on.

Cherry ate her meals in her own cabin. The stewards ate in the galley, standing at the counters, too rushed even to sit down.

She had hardly finished her dinner when the bell from "A" suite rang. Room One—that would be Julia, not Terry. She wondered why Mrs. Scott-Price was not taking coffee with the others in the lounge, but she was soon enlightened.

JULIA was lying on the day couch, reading and smoking. "Please get me some coffee, Miss Mayne. Those men in the lounge are making a frightful noise, and I have a headache. The smoke-room is cold and empty as a morgue." Her husky, complaining voice faded away.

Cherry said, "I'll fetch your coffee." She gathered that by "empty," Julia meant the smoking room did not contain Sir Douglas Fenimore. Probably, like a wise man, he had retreated to his own suite in the port alley.

WAC Recruit Officer to Be Here Tuesday

A special representative of the Women's Army Corps recruiting office in Erie will be present when the WAC maintains its usual weekly headquarters in Warren on Tuesday, Oct. 17, from 2 until 9 p. m.

According to Lt. Mary O'Connor, Commanding Officer in Erie, enlistments in the WAC are approaching a new high, with a majority of the applicants professing a choice for service with the Medical Department of the Army. These women will be given the opportunity to learn a highly technical skill under the most recommended professional men in the country, and will work with our battle casualties in the Army's vast rehabilitation program.

"The GI Bill of Rights" has benefits which will accrue to the WACs as well as to all other soldiers," says Lt. O'Connor. "Briefly, the veterans of this war can, with Government help, (1) Buy or repair a home, (2) Buy and stock up a farm, (3) Start a new business, (4) Get a high school or college education, and (5) Draw special unemployment benefits if unable to find work. These benefits are in ADDITION to mustering-out pay, hospitalization and insurance now provided for men and women in service, vocational training and pensions for disabled veterans. These benefits are available to all men and women of the Armed Services who have other than dishonorable discharges, and have served 90 days since September, 1940."

Other provisions of the Bill include appropriation of $500,000,000 for hospital facilities for veterans, a Veteran's Placement Service within the U. S. Employment Service, appeal machinery for veterans whose claims for readjustment allowances are denied, and review of certain types of unsatisfactory discharges.

Further information concerning the WAC may be obtained from the WAC Headquarters. Home appointments can be arranged.

Veterans Need No Statement Of Availability

The War Manpower Commission is convinced, as are other agencies of government, that the readjustment of Veterans of World War II shall be achieved as quickly as possible and in such a manner as will assure their best possible readjustment to civilian life. The commission does not wish any of the wartime restrictions governing employment to operate against attainment of these objectives.

In order to exempt the employment of Veterans of World War II, the Employment Stabilization Plan, and the Employment Ceiling and Priority Referral Plan for Pennsylvania, Area VIII in operation in Warren have been amended as follows:

"The Employment Stabilization Plan for Pennsylvania, Area VIII, Greensburg Administrative Area, is hereby amended effective immediately by striking out from Section III-F, sub-paragraph 7, the following phrase: 'During the 60-day period following the first day of civilian employment subsequent to separation from the armed forces.'

"The Employment Ceiling and Priority Referral Plan for Pennsylvania, Area VIII, Greensburg Administrative Area, is hereby amended effective immediately by striking out from Section III-B, the phrase: 'during the 60-day period following the first day of

Chapter 6

THE Coromandel cleared Rangitoto Channel in a spanking breeze that filled the sails of the small yachts fluttering like an escort about her steep sides. Like an escort, too, were the gulls that wheeled and cried above her funnels, their white breasts freshly laundered by the morning sunshine that threw Rangitoto Peak into sharp relief.

Terry, jumping up and down on his toes and clinging to the rail, surveyed his world with sharp pleasure. He waved at the long golden line of Takapuna and white houses; he waved at the dark green Pohutukawa trees with their scarlet blossoms; he waved at the officer in white uniform coming down from the bridge.

"Isn't it pretty? It looks much prettier from the sea!"

"Land always does. You can see so much more of it when you stand away." Rory looked interestedly at the small keef he had upturned to him. This must be Terry. He hadn't seen Mrs. Scott-Price yet—he hadn't been in the Coromandel for her previous voyage—but he had heard plenty about her. He knew her husband, and he had been a decent fellow. This kid looked all right. A shade too jumpy and sensitive, but a nice little sea.

"We're out at sea, aren't we?"

"Very nearly. Have you seen the flying boat? She's just going to take off." Rory led him around to the other side and together they watched the giant flying boat skimming the water and launching itself like a powerful bird, effortlessly, into the blue sky.

"Ooh! I wish I was flying back to England! No, I don't—I'd rather be on a boat."

"In a ship," Rory corrected him gently, laughing. He pointed to the boats that were being swung out on the davits overhead. "Those are boats. This is a ship."

"I SEE. Can I go and watch them? What are they putting the boats down for?"

He disengaged himself gently

DAR Chapter Has Regent's Day and Splendid Program on William Penn

Following their annual Regent's Day luncheon and business session at the YWCA on Thursday, members of General Joseph Warren Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, enjoyed one of the finest programs of several seasons.

Beginning by displaying the William Penn Tercentenary proclamation of Governor Martin, Mrs. W. E. Lutz gave members a splendid study of William Penn. From many sources she had compiled material for her presentation, dealing principally with Penn's beliefs and principles of religious freedom, democracy and peace.

She touched upon his birth in London, his early years and education, his writings, the new colony in America to which came in 1682, his illness and last days. A portion of her program was devoted to a dramatization of these events and application of Penn's principles in his dealings with the people who comprised his new domain.

Concluding, Mrs. W. E. Yeager was accompanied by Mrs. Emil Jacobson for the DAR's song of Pennsylvania.

Preceding the program members and guests had luncheon in the dining room, where a long table was decorated with sunshine colored candles in silver candelabra and marigolds. The invocation was given by the chaplain, Mrs. A. F. Kottcamp.

At the conclusion of the serving, Mrs. Leon Laskaris, regent, welcomed the guests, including Miss Dorothy Kottcamp, medical supervisor of the medical department of the Baltimore City Hospital. Four past regents, Mrs. Fred C. Eaton, Mrs. Wilson Waters, Mrs. Lutz and Mrs. Harold Wickstrom, extended greetings to the regent and chapter. Three others, Mrs. R. L. Young, Miss Harriette Rogers and Mrs. W. R. Carlin, were unable to be present.

During the business session which followed in the parlors, Mrs. Kottcamp conducted devotions and the Salute to the Flag and American's Creed were recited. Reports were given by Mrs. W. G. Cable and Mrs. Ray Pickett and Mrs. Laskaris announced Mrs. Carlin would represent the chapter at the state convention in Philadelphia this month. Several members were reported ill and a card was signed for sending to Mrs. E. B. Whiting. Attention was called to efforts of Mrs. Clarence Ricker's Americanism committee to get every member out to vote in the coming election.

An open evening meeting, with husbands and friends invited was announced for November 9, when Dr. Leonard Rosenzweig, of the State Hospital staff, will speak on "Treatment for an Ailing Democracy".

The chapter voted $10 each for its 79 members for the national project of libraries in permanent government hospitals and a three-year gift to the Valley Forge bell tower in perpetuation of the name of General Joseph Warren. The usual sum was voted to approved DAR schools, a gift to the YWCA and $10 to the United War Fund; also purchase of books for the DAR shelf at the library. A number of other chapter affairs were discussed and decided upon.

Golden Wedding Occasion of Party

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Johnson, of Warren. There were places for 14.

In the afternoon they received relatives and friends at their home. A buffet luncheon was served from a table beautifully centered with a tiered, heart-shaped cake, decorated with gold leaves and a miniature bride and groom. Throughout the home were bouquets of white gladioli and poms. Mrs. Norman W. Johnson presided at the table.

The honored guests received many lovely gifts from their guests, these included the following from out of town: Miss Ebba Young, Mrs. Guy Wenker and children, Sheffield; Mr. and Mrs. Amel Follett, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Born, Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Grace Methodist Congregation Has Party for Pastor

The congregation of Grace Methodist church gave a reception Friday evening in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Knappenberger and family, recently returned by the annual conference to begin their fourth year of service in the local church.

The affair was sponsored by the Dorcas Society, Mrs. R. C. Schorman, president, and the official board of the church. The social room were most attractively decorated with numerous baskets of dahlias and chrysanthemums.

A delightful program of music was provided under the direction of Mrs. Edwin Jack, choir director. Miss Fern Mostert added to the pleasure of all with two readings appropriate to the occasion, responding also to an encore.

The musical program included the following: Sing to the Lord of the Harvest by Heyward and "Let Mount Zion Rejoice", both given by the choir; solo, "A Brown Bird Singing" by Haydn Wood, sung by R. M. Krebs; duet, "Watchman, What of the Night" by Sargent, sung by Mrs. C. G. Lindquist and Lester Larson.

W. J. Summerville, in behalf of the board and the congregation made the address of welcome, closing with a challenge to the church for the continuance of that fine spirit of cooperation and loyalty in the work of the kingdom that had marked the past three years. The pastor in his response stated that both he and the family were glad to return for another year to Warren and to Grace church. Very briefly he outlined the purpose of the "Christian Crusade" to which all Methodists are dedicated for the coming year, and besought the prayerful and earnest participation of the membership of the church in that undertaking.

Mrs. D. F. Baird presented to Mrs. Knappenberger, the pastor's wife, in behalf of the congregation, a gift to which she very graciously responded. The program closed with prayer by Dr. H. H. Barr. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge, with Mrs. H. H. Barr and Mrs. Minnie pouring at one table and Mrs. W. J. Summerville and Mrs. S. H. Loding at the other.

Ward Week

IS HERE AGAIN!

For years, Ward Week has been a tradition. Millions of American families have awaited its coming each Spring and Fall. Months ahead Montgomery Ward store managers in every part of the country planned together, bought together to make Ward Week a time of exceptional values. Then came the war... with its urgent call for materials and production. An event like Ward Week, with its huge assortments of civilian goods, seemed out of step with the nation's march towards victory. So, Ward Week was shelved... until now.

Today merchandise is still far from plentiful and we urge you to buy only what you need. But once again we can invite you to shop and save in Ward Week. In every department of our store, you will find timely values. See them all but, please, buy only the things you need and let your neighbors have their share.

Powerhouse Red Lee Sparks Locals in Deadlock Battle Against Jamestown Rivals

Before an estimated crowd of 4,500, Coach J. B. Leidig's High School gridders outplayed an over-rated Jamestown eleven Saturday in a grueling 0-0 deadlock. The locals, led by the outstanding performance of Left Halfback Red Lee, gained revenge for last Saturday's 14-13 defeat at the hands of Falconer, also adding to the Dragon machine a great deal of confidence for the future games.

The intense rivalry of the two schools was displayed by the outstanding sportsmanship on the part of the two groups. Throughout the game both cheering sections yelled and screamed as each team made impressive gains or manipulated to scoring position. Following the game, the local student body played host to the Jamestown team and their followers at the community party at Beatty School.

After taking the beginning kickoff, the local gridders repeatedly smashed the Red and Green for extensive gains, penetrating the Jamestown ground. Numerous punt exchanges marked the first stanza with the ball changing hands frequently. Sam Restivo, Jamestown fullback, proved to be the mainstay of the New York aggregation, brilliantly returning the Warren kicks and doing a stellar job of ground gaining.

In the second period, the Red and Green eleven came to life, driving deep into local territory, but were stopped dead on the Warren 9 yard stripe by Leidig's magnificent forward wall. Jamestown could in no way break the Dragon line to reach the goal. Big Larry Zobrest, Pass Receiver Scallise, and Little-But-Effective Jay White made up the left side of the local wall, which outwitted and outplayed the Jamestown line.

Forming the right side were Paul Dickerson, Jack Cooney, and another small but effective lineman, Eggs Gerardi. To make sure of no deep penetrations, Captain Mac Sirrianni backed up the wall. At half time, with the score standing at 0-0, Harry Summers' Dragon band impressed the bleacherites with the formation of the Jamestown "J" and the Warren "W" with the Alma Mater played by a cornet trio composed of Bud Lucy, Pete Bohren, and Dale Soderburg. The feature of the halftime exhibition was a comedy act with the lone wanderer, Bud Lucy, playing "Til Walk Alone."

Both teams came onto the field in the second half with renewed energy and spirit, ready to battle for a win to the last whistle. Coast Denton J. Moon's eleven fought furiously to repel the deadly passing attack unleashed by the locals in the second half. The Jamestowners, Restivo having returned Marti's punt to the Warren 42, battled to the local 13 yard line, stopping when Mac Sirrianni intercepted a Jamestown pass on his own 8 yard stripe. This interception was the beginning of a frequent pass interception spree. Warren began their touchdown march late in the third period following Carlson's pass on the Warren 32, returning the oval to the locals' 39. A series of runs and Jamestown's being penalized for interference, Warren had the oval on their opponents' 24 yard marker at the third quarter whistle. Jamestown's Foster intercepted a Dragon pass on his own 13 yard line. Red Lee, who proved to be the most valuable player on the Dragon squad, came to the rescue immediately and intercepted a Jamestown pass on his opponents' 25 and drove to the 16 yard line. After a 15-yard holding penalty, the Dragons marched to within 3 yards of the Jamestown goal, lacking a few inches to make a first down which would have given them four more downs to attempt a score.

Came the rains and the field became a hole of mud, the down-

COUNTY TEAMS LOSE IN WEEKEND GRID GAMES

Bob Jewell's Youngsville Eagles took a 19-6 defeat at the hands of a highly over-rated Ridgway eleven Saturday at Wilder Field. The Elgers scored three times in the first period, the Elgers were expected to win by a decided margin, but were held by the outstanding effectiveness of the Eagle line.

Sheffield lost a heart-breaking 7-6 battle to the Kane Wolves on Saturday also. In a nip-and-tuck battle, the Wolverines had one last chance to trim the Montgomerymen in the latter part of the tilt when they drove to the Kane twenty yard line but failed to score.

BEHIND THE LINES

SATURDAY'S GAME

After taking a bit of rest following the game Saturday, we will take time off to give you a few of the outstanding plays, participants, and spectators at the Saturday Game. . . . Eddie Branch, former-ly a pessimist, who wore an overcoat during a recent battle on the hottest day of the fall grid campaign, now becomes an optimist. Ed forgot to take along a raincoat to the game and was caught in the downpour along with the rest of the spectators. . . . Red Lee's remarkable appearance Saturday. Man! How he can run. He also threw some of the Swedes for decided losses on the left side of his line. . . . Jack Cooney, who received a back injury in the second half of the game, is getting along much better. Cooney, who replaced Chuck Adams badly wrenched some of his back muscles. . . . The excellent sportsmanship of both teams and their followers and the outstanding officiating. . . . Warren's triple reverse-pass, play, which they pulled on the Jamestowners, whose eyes popped wide open. . . . One of the largest crowds at Russell Field in a good many years. Between 4 and 5 thousand. . . . Sammy Restivo's brilliant punt runbacks and ground gains proved to be invaluable to the Red and Green. . . . Coach Leidig's look of satisfaction following the game. . . . The rain certainly came at the wrong time. We all got soaking wet. . . . Including Duane Wilder, the Warren News reporter. . . . The infrequent substitutions in the battle Saturday shows that the game was no easy affair. . . .

THIS AND THAT

Now come the Monday morning quarterback who know how either team could have won the game. Ha Ha. . . . The High School Bowling League got under way yesterday afternoon at the Arcade. . . . Some of the Sunday enthusiasts journeyed up to the East Street Field and saw Mavrell's foursome defeat the Lundquist men, 39-32. . . . Out-of-town deer hunters are fortunate that there is a club called the Warren Field and Stream Club. This organization is planning to provide eating and sleeping accommodations for the sportsman during the hunting seasons. . . . Comes to this corner a rumor that Youngsville will have lights for

"...Sorta' look out for my kid sister till I get back, will ya'?"

GET THIS RIGHT—she's a good girl. She walks straight and proud and unafraid, holding her head up, only...

She's walking into a different world, a grown-up world. These are tough times for kids her age. Most of the boys she knew have left town, have gone to war. There aren't so many parties, clubs, and games anymore. No, but there are still plenty of the same old ugly, dangerous things for kids to do. War makes them look different. Exciting. Glamorous. Even patriotic.

See how good kids drift into juvenile delinquency?

Please... don't let it happen to my sister. Sorta' look out for her till I get back.

Warren National Bank Announces New Service

House of the Month Club For Future Home Builders

A new service to the people of the community is offered by the Warren National Bank, as mentioned in their ad in today's issue of the Times-Mirror. This consists of membership in the "House of the Month Club" by which prospective home builders may obtain illustrations each month of a new house with floor plans and other detailed information. Those who expect to build a home after the war and are following a program of savings to get ready for this, may examine the illustrations and obtain further information from the bank, even to blue prints and specifications of the house of their choice, so that they can be ready to build when the right time comes. The October "House of the Month" is called "The Judson" and is a five room house, which is a modern adaptation of colonial style. It comes within a moderate price range and provides a living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, and bath, with laundry, furnace room and hobby room in the basement under part of the house. A small scale model is exhibited in the bank lobby. All those who are interested in future home building, are invited to call and discuss the subject further with any of the bank's officers.

The legs and wings of flies mixed with the pulp of superfine paper, give the finished product a peculiar and handsome pattern which is difficult to duplicate in any other manner.

READING & WRITING BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

"BLACK MAIL" by Henry Hoke is being talked about as the most important and sensational book of its kind since "Under Cover." It tells the true story of an American businessman who turned himself into a one-man crusade in an effort to get at the facts behind the use of the U. S. mails by Nazi propagandists and their sympathizers.

As executive manager of the Direct Mail Advertising Association, Henry Hoke was in a better position than most to find out what individuals and what organizations were flooding the U. S. mails with propaganda designed to soften up the American people and make us useless in the war.

His investigations led to an exposure of the misuse of the congressional franking privilege and put some well-known political figures in a very uncomfortable position. They led also to the indictment and conviction of Nazi agents and their little helpmates in this country.

Richard Tregaskis, author of "Guadalcanal Diary," has followed that highly successful book-of-the-month with an account of his experiences in Italy and Africa, "Invasion Diary." One story he tells is of the private of the 36th Division famous for his foul language. When the 36th hit the beach, they were subjected to shattering artillery bombardment and the profane fellow, lying in a foxhole, began to pray in a loud voice, "Oh, God, please save me," and he continued in this vein. Another private, in a near-by foxhole, recognized the voice, and shouted, "Hey, Joe, why don't you knock off crying for help and talk to somebody you know?"

Chinese ways are strange and mysterious to American salesmen, Donald Dunham explains in his book, "Envoy Unextraordinary." One of them was negotiating with a Chinese broker to do business with him. After he had left, the American Consul who had conducted the meeting explained that his British competitor had offered the Chinese a larger percentage. The salesman jumped. "But why didn't he say so? I might have been able to shave off a bit here and there."

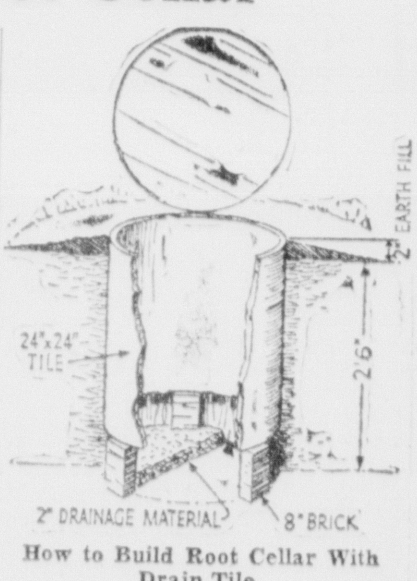

But the Consul advised him to sit by and wait. "If he likes you, he'll sign anyway," he said. And sure enough the next day he was told that his offer was accepted. The Chinese had turned down the Britisher because he was said to mistreat his houseboy.

Crops Keep All Winter in Drain Tile Root Cellar

All winter storage of Victory garden crops which require cold, moist air, may be provided inexpensively by burying boxes of vegetables, or merely covering them in pits.

When this method is used there is some difficulty in digging them up when the ground is frozen, and the entire box, or pit contents must be removed at once. Several boxes or pits, each containing a mixture of vegetables, are necessary, to be opened at intervals.

Larger quantities can be stored with excellent results in a 24-inch drain tile sunk into the earth and closed with an insulated cover, which may be opened at will for the removal of any part of the contents, and replaced without difficulty.

vegetables should be covered with six inches of hay, straw or leaves, then with six to eight inches of soil. Vegetables and fruit placed in storage must be free from decay or injury and neither too old, nor immature. They should be harvested after frost has stopped their growth, but should never be stored if they have been frozen. Avoid vegetables with bruises or skin punctures, as decay will start from these and never store vegetables which are wet.

Do not cover vegetables in earth pits until the soil temperature has cooled off and do not close your storage tile tightly until the temperature with has dropped to 40 degrees.
